Torrential Rains Winds Strike Chicago, Suburbs

CHICAGO (AP) — Torrential rains and thunderstorms struck much of northern Illinois Friday night, staggering some communities with flash floods and high winds. Up to 7 inches of rain swamped parts of the Chicago area. Authorities said 10 persons were injured when the roof at the Golden Grain Macaroni Co., in the Chicago suburb of Bridgeview, collapsed. One man was injured critically in the collapse which authorities said was caused by the sudden heavy rains. A tornado struck the outskirts of Park Ridge, a northwest Chicago suburb. No injuries were reported, but the unconfirmed twister damaged several homes, ripped up trees and utility lines and overturned several autos in the parking lot of the Marriott Motor Hotel. The National Weather Service also was caught by surprise when what it termed "the worst storm of the year" struck the area. It warned of possible flooding rains, then said its weather radar was taken out of service "for an equipment modification." Several Lake Michigan tributaries and streams were swollen by the downpours. The Chicago Sanitary District opened the Wilmette Harbor Lock on the North Shore Channel to allow water from the swollen Chicago River to flow back into (See back page, sec. 1, col. 5)

Report Drowning In Painter Lake

EDWARDSBURG — Cass county marine deputies this morning were searching Painter Lake, northeast of here, for the victim of a reported drowning.

Deputies late this morning had released no information about the victim or the circumstances of the drowning, which was reported at 7:35 a.m.

Painter Lake is about five miles northeast of Edwardsburg, in a wooded, relatively undeveloped area popular with fishermen.

Berrien Highways Claim Two Lives

Berrien Springs Girl, Farm Worker Die In Crashes

A 17-year-old Berrien Springs girl died and a Stevensville boy, also 17, was seriously injured, when their auto went off Red Arrow highway in Lincoln township and struck a tree early this morning. In another accident Friday afternoon, a farm worker was killed when a tractor overturned on Painter School road, Berrien township. The victim of the auto crash was identified by Berrien sheriff's officers as Mickey Ann Weaver, 17, of Box 245 Hollywood road, Berrien Springs.

Killed in the tractor accident was a man identified by deputies as Margarito Reyes, Jr., 21, of Apopka, Fla., a worker on the Leonard Franks farm near Berrien Center.

Admitted to Memorial hospital was Miss Weaver's companion, identified as Charles Gilbert Sonnichsen, 17, Ridge road, Stevensville. Officers said he received a skull fracture and lacerations. The hospital said a condition report would not be released for 24 hours.

The sheriff's department said it is not known yet who was driving the auto. The accident occurred about 2:17 a.m. on Red Arrow highway, 500 feet north of the I-94 overpass. The auto was reported northbound.

The department said Miss Weaver, pinned in the wreckage, was pronounced dead on arrival at Memorial hospital.

The accident remained under investigation this morning. Roads were wet and slippery at the time.

The tractor accident was reported about noon Friday, and occurred on Painter School road, a quarter-mile south of Deans Hill road. A witness told deputies that the tractor was traveling north at a high rate of speed, and pulling a trailer, when it went out of control and overturned. Reyes was pinned under the trailer and was pronounced dead on arrival at Berrien General hospital.

The two accidents brought to 36 the number of persons killed on Berrien county roads, so far this year. The Berrien traffic toll last year at this time stood at 35 and the year ended with 52 deaths.

Miss Weaver was born Feb. 3, 1955, in Berrien Center and was a former student at Lakeshore high school. Survivors include her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Weaver of Berrien Springs; three sisters, Mrs. Easchol (Monnie) Mullis and Mrs. Larry (Thelma) Mitchell of

Grand Old Man Of Sea Dies

PLYMOUTH, England (AP) — Britain's grand old man of the sea, Sir Francis Chichester, who defied age and cancer to sail around the world alone, died today at the Royal Naval Hospital here after a long illness. He was 70.

Few men in this century have caught the heart of this seafaring nation more than Chichester. In 1967 at the age of 65, when most men retire, he survived gales, mountainous seas, icebergs and near sinking to circle the globe in his 53-foot yacht Gipsy Moth IV.

His wife, Lady Chichester, and their son Giles were at his bedside.

Abortion Decision Ignored

DETROIT (AP) — A court decision this week says be more lenient in enforcing Michigan's 126-year-old abortion law.

Several law enforcement officials said they will continue to take a hard stand against abortion and some hospital administrators said they won't change policy because of the decision.

Michigan law states therapeutic abortions can be performed only when a committee of doctors agree the mother's life would be endangered by giving birth.

In a 2-1 decision, the State Court of Appeals said Thursday the state no longer has sufficient reason to prevent any therapeutic abortion by a doctor at a hospital when the woman is less than three months pregnant, whether or not her

TAVERN-RESTAURANT SITE: A lounge and restaurant is scheduled to open in this building at 1698 Britain avenue, Benton township. Location across street from Boynton elementary school has brought protests from some mothers, according to Mrs. Connie Patterson, 1820

Mothers Protest Bar Near Boynton School

Group Threatens Boycott If Tavern Operating On Opening Day

BY JIM SHANAHAN
BH City Editor

The prospect of a tavern-restaurant across the street from Boynton elementary school has prompted a group of mothers to start action aimed at preventing business from operating, according to Mrs. Connie Patterson, 1820 Empire avenue.

Mrs. Patterson said if the bar is operating when school opens Sept. 5, she and other mothers will conduct a boycott of Boynton school, Britain and Crystal avenues.

The bar is scheduled to open in a building formerly occupied by a catering service and grocery store. The licensee is Herman O. Kent who formerly operated the Belmont tavern at 1015 Territorial road.

Kent's license has been in escrow since the Belmont was demolished under condemnation more than two years ago. The transfer to the 1698 Britain avenue, across from Boynton school, was approved by the Benton township board of trustees April 4, 1972 after clearance had been received from the Michigan Liquor Control commission.

Supervisor Martin J. Lane said a liquor inspector canvassed residents in the immediate area of 1698 Britain last January. The results showed eight approvals of the transfer, three objections, one no opinion and three the inspector was unable to contact. A survey of the same area a year earlier turned up a negative response.

The motion to approve the transfer was made by township Treasurer Tony Angelo and seconded by trustee Chester Jolley Jr., according to minutes of the April 4 meeting. The motion passed without opposition. Supervisor Lane votes only in case of tie.

Lane noted that when the catering service was in the building, it was charged with selling beer for consumption on the premises without a license. The case was dismissed in court because the police officer had consumed the beer and did not retain it for evidence.

Kent said he has been remodeling the building for four to five months, expecting to open in September. He noted the grocery store in the building sold beer and wine to take out for about 20 years.

Many school children came into the place when there was a grocery store and beer and wine was being sold over the counter," said Kent, a former Berrien county deputy sheriff.

"Minors are forbidden by law to be in our place, unless their mother or father brings them in."

Kent also said there is a liquor license at a golf course just down the road and no one has protested that.

"We don't want any problems. We will obey all the laws. Most of our business will be at hours during after school hours," he said.

Mrs. Patterson said the Benton Harbor school administration has been advised of the matter. Mrs. Patterson also stated she will seek signatures against the tavern and write to the Liquor Control commission.

State Supreme Court Must Decide By Tuesday Abortion Supporters Want Vote

By ASSOCIATED PRESS
Michigan's Supreme Court must decide by Tuesday if a constitutional amendment liberalizing state abortion laws cannot be submitted to the voters Nov. 7.

And supporters of the proposed change say a vote upon the measure is even more important now that the Michigan Court of Appeals has ruled that abortions during the first three months of pregnancy are legal.

The court's 2-1 decision Thursday granted women the right to have abortions for any reason during those months — provided the operation is performed by a physician in an approved hospital or clinic.

Both the court ruling and the proposed constitutional change have many similarities. The basic difference is that the voters could approve a measure allowing abortions during the first 20 weeks of pregnancy rather than only in the first three months.

Even so, Dr. Jack Stack, an Alma physician heading a group backing abortion reform, said, "We want the proposition to be voted on. We don't want new interpretations of old laws."

Stack said if the ballot proposal loses, then his group will be satisfied with the court ruling.

There is a possibility Thursday's decision will be appealed to the Michigan Supreme Court.

And there is a chance another three-judge panel from the appellate court might be called upon to rule in a similar case. "If that court disagreed with yesterday's findings, then the Supreme Court would be called in for the last word," said Judge T. John Lesinski, chief judge of the appellate court.

Keep Close Tab On Food Establishments

Berrien Health Inspectors Busy

By BRANDON BROWN
Staff Writer

Berrien county health department environmentalists make more than 1,100 inspections a year of the county's 717 food service establishments. Berrien county commissioners were told this week.

Forty establishments were called on the carpet and agreed to corrections in 1971, according to Edward Golson, head of environmental health. He issued the division report in a series of health department presentations to commissioners at monthly meetings.

Seven environmentalists spend 29 per cent of their time inspecting food establishments to upgrade them and prevent outbreaks of food-borne illness, according to Golson's report.

Establishments are graded on food protection, sanitation, cleanliness and a host of other standards, he reported. When one scores more demerits than the maximum set by the U.S.

Public Health Service, the operator is called to an informal hearing to discuss and set dates for correction. Forty establishments were called on the carpet and agreed to corrections in 1971, Golson reported.

Such inspections produced $14,606 in fees last year. Schools and churches don't have to pay.

Golson added that persons contemplating buying or building a food service facility should contact the county health department for guidelines on approved equipment, type of construction, maintenance and others.

"What has happened in the past is that an individual will receive a building permit, have the food establishment partially remodeled before it comes to our attention, and then face delays in obtaining a state license through us because the facility doesn't meet state guidelines," Golson said.

Michiana Officials Resign In Dispute

MICHIANA — The village clerk, police chief and two deputies of this small state-line community quit their jobs last night in disputes with the village council.

The resignations were offered and successors named during a stormy council session, the first since a village election on Aug. 12.

Mrs. Marjorie Royce, clerk for the past eight years, walked from the meeting after she refused to accept a cut in pay.

Police Chief John Baldwin quit, saying he would not report to a three-man commission set up by the council replacing the single commissioner to whom Baldwin had been reporting. His resignation was followed by resignations from deputies Tom Hildebrand and Pat Stranad.

Named to replace Mrs. Royce was Frank Trusha, sworn in as acting police chief was LaVern Scott.

Mrs. Royce had been offered $3,000 for work as village clerk, assessor, treasurer, clerk and treasurer of the water department and secretary of the council. For serving in all positions but clerk and treasurer of the water department, she has been paid a salary of $3,700.

Leonard Jacobs, elected by the council last night as its new president, described the action as an austerity measure.

Following Mrs. Royce's resignation, the village office was moved from her home to the community house. Hours there will be 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., May through September, and 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., October through April.

The meeting was the first since two new members, Dr. W. Wayne Dunlop and Jerry Glickauf, were elected to the council. They defeated incumbent Richard Gossweiler and Gordon Booz.

Sreboth To suggest BHHS Principal

Benton Harbor board of education is expected to get a recommendation Monday from Supt. Raymond Sreboth on appointment of a new high school principal.

Incumbent Principal David Hartenbach resigned effective Sept. 1 to become principal of a high school at Aurora, Colo.

Monday's meeting is a special session at 7:30 p.m. in Bierman library at senior high.

Also on the agenda are a report on the school budget which faces $600,000 in cuts as a result of a millage defeat and certification of the 1972 tax levy.

Campaign Plans Being Made At Grand Rapids

State Democrats Gather For Final Warmup

By JOHN TEARE
Associated Press Writer
GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Michigan Democrats, 3,000 strong, are swarming together this weekend for a last warmup exercise before the fall campaign season gets under way in earnest after Labor Day.

The gathering of the party clans here today and Sunday at the aging Pantlind Hotel and Grand Rapids civic center typically amounts to a political hustler's paradise.

The major statewide race, for the U.S. Senate, already is shaping up as a war of words and wits between Democratic Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley and GOP incumbent Robert P. Griffin.

But attention here is focused on 13 other assorted state and party posts that have attracted a field of some 30 candidates. Principal business of the convention is the nomination of two candidates each for the Michigan Supreme Court, state education board and the directorates of Michigan State University, Wayne State University and the University of Michigan.

In addition, there are three seats to fill on the party's national committee and 21 party delegates to pick for the federal Electoral College in the event U.S. Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., carries the state Nov. 7 over President Nixon.

Republicans, only recently returned from their national convention earlier in the week at Miami Beach, are scheduled to hold a similar business session in Detroit next weekend.

A big question of the Democrats' convocation here this weekend is how the party will grapple again with the politically tricky issue of school desegregation and pupil busing. Adopting platforms and passing resolutions — seemingly innocuous statements on generalized subjects — have brought the party some grief and difficulty in recent years.

Two years ago, for example, in a similar fall convention here, an early Sunday morning convention got out of hand before leaders had even finished breakfast. Delegates already on the floor voted for a controversial resolution calling for full amnesty to draft resisters. The plank in the 1970 state party platform was repudiated quickly the next week by leading party figures but remained a target of GOP potshots for some time.

This spring, at the May convention in Detroit, newly arrived party troops loyal to crippled Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace sought to force adoption of a tough, anti-busing statement. Party officials dodged the issue by dragging out the Sunday afternoon convention's attention to other business, then choked off the busing issue by adjourning.

The topic continues to rank as the principal political hot potato around the state, and the 2,440 voting delegates may be in for some fireworks at the Sunday meeting.

"Obviously, we don't want to take up those issues which are liabilities," said party chairman James McNeely, but he gave no indication how busing would be handled.

U. S. Sen. Thomas F. Eagle-

ton, D-Mo., was scheduled to deliver the convention keynote address at noon Sunday. Eagle-ton was McGovern's first choice for vice presidential running mate until news accounts of the St. Louis politician's early medical treatment for nervous exhaustion forced McGovern to pick again.

Party chairman McNeely said Eagleton was booked for the speech after current vice presidential contender R. Sargent Shriver could not come. He dismissed the suggestion that Eagleton represented a substitute sent to a state where McGovern and Shriver do not see favorable prospects. McNeely said Eagleton "may be more in demand than either of the party's two principal contenders. McNeely said both McGovern and Shriver would campaign in the state later this fall, but said he has not yet received word when to expect either man.

Today's activity was expected to consist largely of caucuses by the delegates to the 19 congressional district groups.

The plenary session was scheduled to open at 10 a.m. Sunday.

Mary Coleman Set For Uphill Battle

By QUANE KENYON
Associated Press Writer
MARSHALL, Mich. (AP) — Is the time ripe for Michigan to have its first woman on the State Supreme Court?

Calhoun County Probate Judge Mary Coleman thinks so, and has launched a late-blooming campaign for one of the two Supreme Court seats that will be awarded by voters in November.

But first she has to capture her party's nomination next weekend (Sept. 1-2) in Detroit at the Republican State Convention.

"If I can get the nomination, I think I can win," says the attractive, dark-haired veteran of 31 years as a lawyer and judge.

"I think this might be the year when a woman is elected," she says. "Both parties are trying to get more women into meaningful positions, and I can't think of a position more meaningful than supreme court justice."

Judge Coleman faces some severe handicaps in her quest for a supreme court job. First, she seeks the Republican nomination for a seat now held by a Democrat. Also, she is the only outstate candidate seeking the nomination. And finally, she is a woman and believed to be the first of her sex ever to announce for the supreme court.

She and helpers spent most of last week mailing out 3,000 brochures to the delegates and alternates to the state convention.

"We're behind because some of the other candidates have been running longer," she says, "But we're going over there to make ourselves known."

Her brochure notes that Judge Coleman was the state's first presiding probate and juvenile court judge, and she is finishing a term as president of the Probate and Juvenile Court Judges' State Association.

Judge Coleman said she had been urged to run for the supreme court, but was undecided. Then a supreme court decision in late July "pushed me over the border."

"That decision held that the state's legal procedure, under which certain juveniles under age 17 could be tried as adults in criminal courts, was invalid because it was too vague.

"Opinions like that are quite

MARY COLEMAN
Calhoun probate judge

alarming—there's no legal precedent for it," she says. "I don't know if that's tactful or not for me to say but it's true, at least to probate judges."

"There have been other opinions just as devastating to the juvenile court system but this one has been the most dramatic. It could set free up to 400 persons in prison for such crimes as murder, rape and assault," she said.

She estimates it would cost at least $50,000 to run for the court but says she has promises of support from all parts of the state.

If she does make the jump from probate judge in Marshall to supreme court justice in Lansing, 40 miles away, it won't be much of a transition for the Coleman family.

Her husband, Calhoun County Circuit Court Judge Creighton Coleman, served eight years as a state senator in the 1950s, including a term as senate majority leader.

Suit Asks Over Half Million

A Niles man filed suit in Berrien circuit court Friday asking $600,000 in damages for a brain injury his six-year-old daughter allegedly suffered when struck by an auto in Cass county.

In the suit, James Murphy claims his daughter, Judy Ann, was buying ice cream from a mobile vendor when she was hit by the auto Aug. 19, 1971, on Lakeshore drive west of Barron Lake road in Howard township.

Named as defendants were three Niles residents: Wilma W. Huff, driver of the car; Maxine Jane Conn, driver of the ice cream truck; James Harper, owner of the truck; and Renwalds Ice Cream, Inc., of Highland, Ind.

Murphy claims his daughter suffered brain damage, a skull fracture and a fractured left elbow. He asks $500,000 in damages for his daughter and $100,000 for himself.

Murphy is represented by James T. Sloan, Jr., of Kalamazoo.

This spring, at the May convention in Detroit, newly arrived party troops loyal to crippled Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace sought to force adoption of a tough, anti-busing statement. Party officials dodged the issue by dragging out the Sunday afternoon convention's attention to other business, then choked off the busing issue by adjourning.

The topic continues to rank as the principal political hot potato around the state, and the 2,440 voting delegates may be in for some fireworks at the Sunday meeting.

LMC Extends Registration

Lake Michigan college will extend registration through Thursday, Aug. 31, for regular, full-time students, according to Thomas P. McCourt, director of admissions. "Students are still returning from vacations and from jobs elsewhere and we do not feel it fair to penalize them if they enroll during the period of Monday, Aug. 28, through Thursday, Aug. 31," said.

Registration hours for regular full-time students the four days is 8 a.m. to noon, 1 to 4 p.m., and 6 to 7 p.m.

The extended registration gives students a chance to enroll without paying a late penalty fee despite LMC's unusually early semester start, McCourt said.

Classes started last Monday.

Branches to advise and help parents and administer local programs and fund-raising. There are 110 C-F Centers, to which 12,000 C-F patients are coming — with an estimated 25,000 undiagnosed cases expected. The National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation supports the research of scientists throughout the world, who seek to find a cause of the disease, and a control for the deadly disease. Today, C-F infants have a good chance at longer and more productive lives, for many are living into their teens and beyond into young adulthood, the result of the improved medical care and expanded research.

Today, some 16 years after those parents struggled to begin, C-F children are not the only ones benefiting from treatment and research devised for their care. Children with the other related lung diseases, whose symptoms are similar to C-F respond very favorably to much the same treatment. Their suffering is alleviated, and many times, cures are affected.

The answer sought by that small group of parents in 1955, still has not been found, but today, there is real hope, based on the realities of more public understanding, more public support, more advanced research and better care. Interest in the study of genetic diseases has grown to significant proportions in the scientific community, and C-F research can only benefit from this heightened interest, as it is considered a model for genetic disease, due to its complex nature.

With this progress — the need of millions of children who struggle to breathe has grown larger — and with it, the need for more volunteers and more funds.

"Never take breathing for granted," is the theme of the Breath of Life Campaign. All of us are concerned about breathing clean air — these children are concerned about breathing, period!

All of us who really care, can help. Give as generously as you can, of your money, and your volunteer time, to the current Breath of Life Campaign. Don't take breathing for granted!

Though not professional models, the four guides did an excellent job with fashions for fall.

SUGGESTS NEW SUPERINTENDENT

Editor,
I agree to a recent letter in this newspaper. I too feel something must be done in the Coloma School District. There appears to be many dissatisfied people.

I believe some of the problem could be eliminated if there was a different superintendent. We need one who owns property and pays taxes in the school district which pays his salary. We need one whose wife is active in community and church affairs and whose children attend the local school. This type of a superintendent would then be able to better understand some of our problems as average taxpayers and parents.

I realize all the problems would not be solved overnight if this change were made but, I feel the people of the Coloma School district would try to work together more harmoniously. It certainly would be worth a try. Until that time, my vote will be NO. I'm tired of seeing my hard earned money spent for foolishness.
